Storage & Handling

Hold in a 33-36 °F cooler with a high relative humidity of 90-98%.

Asparagus is sensitive to ethylene but is not an ethylene producer.

Southern Selects white asparagus gets its creamy, pale white color by being deprived of sunlight. Each individual spear is gently covered with earth's soil as it pokes through the ground. This prevents the creation of chlorophyll, which would turn the asparagus green.

Peru is the largest exporter of fresh white asparagus in the Western hemisphere. The ideal growing conditions in the desert areas of Peru allow harvesting all throughout the year. This product is enjoyed throughout Europe and North America. White asparagus has a mild, nutty flavor with a smooth texture that is reminiscent of hearts of palm and salsify. The beauty of white asparagus placed among other vegetables, adds a simple elegance to the most ordinary meal.
